

Commander Michael W. Davis
United States Public Health Service

Dr. Michael Davis earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Zoology from Brigham Young University and graduated from the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in 2000. He completed additional optometric training in hospital based optometry as an optometry resident at the Gallup Indian Medical Center from July 2000 to June 2001. During his residency, Dr. Davis was commissioned a Lieutenant in the United States Public Health Service. After completion of his residency, he continued to serve at the Gallup Indian Medical Center. He has co-directed or directed the residency program since 2002 while concurrently serving as the eye department deputy chief of eye care since 2003. LT Davis was promoted to Lieutenant Commander in 2004 and to Commander in 2009. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Optometry, an executive council member of the Armed Forces Optometric Society and a member of the American Optometric Association.

Dr. Davis is married to Ching Dela Cruz and they are the parents of two sons, Gabriel and Joshua.