

Colonel George L. Adams III serves as the Corps Specific Branch Proponent Officer (CSBPO) and Senior Assistant to the Chief, Medical Service Corps at Fort Sam Houston, TX. He holds a bachelor's degree from North Carolina State University, an MBA from Eastern New Mexico University and a Doctor of Optometry degree from Pacific University College of Optometry. He is a graduate of the Army's Command and General Staff College and the Air War College.

Colonel Adams has been assigned as an optometrist in various duty positions in Germany and in CONUS. Notably, he has served with the 101st Airborne Division, he was the Program Director for the Eye Specialist Course at the Academy of Health Sciences, Fort Sam Houston, TX, and he served as the Chief of Optometry, Acting IG and was on the Base Closure Staff at Fitzsimons Army Medical Center. He was the Chief of EENT at Martin Army Community Hospital from 1997 to 2000, and subsequently served as Chief of Optometry at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. From June 2001 to June 2005, he served as the Optometry Consultant in the Office of the Surgeon General, Chief of Army Optometry, and Assistant Corps Chief, Medical Service Corps.